Credit taking bosses

A real-life Story

Abdul Gafoor

John the Business Manager took charge of a new territory.

It is a big wholesale Healthcare business, have own outlets in all major towns

After one month, john's boss SIMON came to visit

John explained his boss about some changes and renovation of wholesale shop to look attractive

John's boss did not ask anything like, what you want to change, how you want to change, what is the budget etc.

Discussed nothing but said Ok. the budget is $ 5000. use carefully and do it. Did not ask even if the $ 5000 sufficient or anymore requirement etc.

John used his contacts, interpersonal skills, networks etc. and managed to get the best design from an architecture by paying a minimum amount.

John made a best renovation with the amount approved

With a proud feeling John sent an email to his boss along with complete details and good pictures.

John was proud to inform his boss.

After 3 days John received reply for his mail

He opened the mail to read how his boss appreciated.

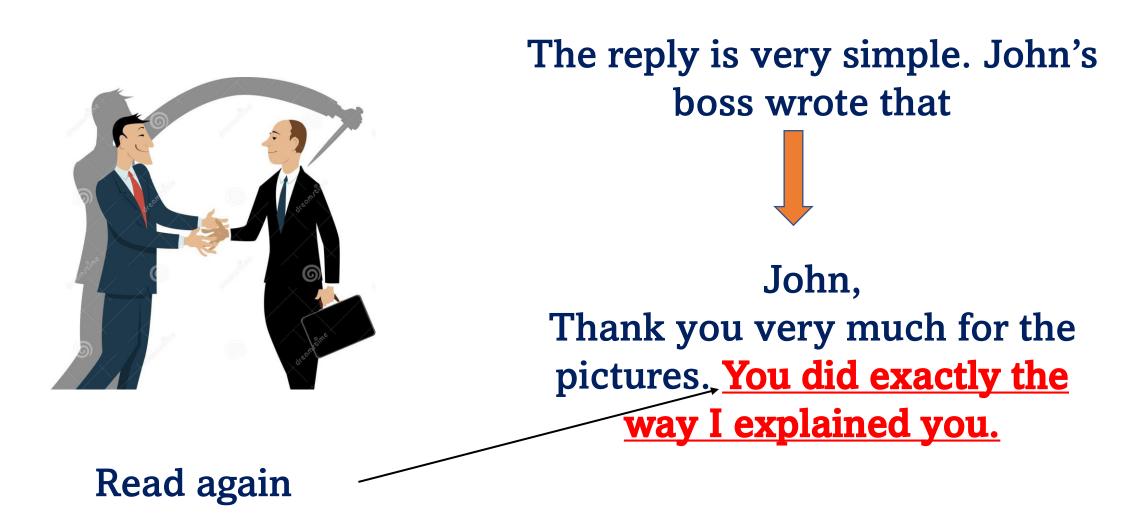

What is the reply ?

The reply is very simple. John's boss wrote that

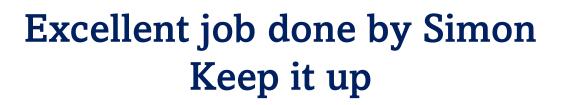

John, Thank you very much for the pictures. You did exactly the way I explained you.

John's boss marked email copy to company Chairman, CEO, COO

CEO replied

Great job Simon You have a great idea about designing outlets.

COO replied

Fantastic work. Let all the people in organization know this.

I am sharing all by a copy.

No one knows who is john and what excellent job he did?

With just one sentence Simon stolen all the hard work john put in to make great outlet.
